OIL ADVANCES IN PRICE AGAIN, GOING TO $3.25 FOR KY.

Two Advances Within Ten Days Brings Joy to the Local Fields.

The following telegram gives details of another oil advance. Kentucky oil is listed as Somerset at $3.25. Pittsburgh, Dec. 31.—Oil men were startled today when the principal oil purchasing agency announced another advance in the price of crude oil. Pennsylvania grade being lifted twenty-five cents a barrel to $5. Other prices were raised 15 cents a barrel as follows: Coming $3.50; Cabell $3.42; Somerset $3.25.

These prices are the highest ever quoted in Pittsburgh for the grades affected, and spell the third advance within two months. No cause was assigned for the upward movement other than that reserve supplies are not what high authorities in the oil trade believe they should be, and the steady increase may spur development to a point where production will be sensibly increased.

Already oil production has become so profitable that old fields in western Pennsylvania are being drilled over, and many wells, long since abandoned as unworthy of attention, are being cleaned out, connected up with a similar well and then carefully pumped.

WELLS AND HARMON KILLED BY KIRK BROTHERS AT ODDS

Last week the NEWS had a brief and somewhat indefinite account of a shooting affray in Johnson-co., not far from Van Lear. The report reached us just before going to press. The facts are quite different from what we first heard.

Martin Wells and a friend named Harmon were killed by two brothers named Kirk, who are charged with moonshining, and also it is said one of them is a deserter from the army. Wells and Harmon arrested one of the Kirks and started to Painsville with him. Harmon went back for something and during his absence the other Kirk arrived and shot Wells, killing him instantly. When Harmon returned he was fatally shot, living only a few hours. The Kirks escaped.

LATER.—The names of the people referred to in above article are as follows: Martin Wells, detective; Isaac Kirk, 23, returned soldier; Hebe Kirk, 20, a younger brother, who had deserted the U. S. army, and D. C. Harmon, a deputy sheriff. The officers had a warrant for the arrest of the deserter. A reward of $1200 is offered for the arrest of the two boys.

BIG SANDY'S PROGRESS NOTED

The following is an editorial from the Courier-Journal:

It was but recently that The Courier-Journal, discussing the Louisville-Paducah Federal Highway, then proposed, later assured and now partly surveyed, predicted that there would be a Federal aid road up the Big Sandy Valley, and that eventually there would be river valley roads making it possible to drive an automobile from the Virginia line to the Mississippi River upon Kentucky soil and within sight of the glistening water of Kentucky streams.

The vote for bonds in Lawrence county, according to a Louisa dispatch, assures the 150-mile Federal aid road up the Big Sandy from Ashland to Pound Gap.

Unfortunately Carroll, Gallatin and Boone counties declined to join in the construction of the proposed Federal aid road between Louisville and Cincinnati, and traffic will cross the river at Milton, but are long the three counties which now remain out of the Cincinnati-Louisville project will grow restive witnessing the stream of traffic cross the river at Milton. They will, by one means or another, build a trunk-line road.

Much new construction and improvement of old roads between Covington and Ashland must be undertaken before an automobile can be driven from Pound Gap to Mills Point, but with the Big Sandy Valley setting an example of progress the river counties between Covington and Ashland will become ambitious. The western river counties did not wait for an example.

Kentucky will have, along the Big Sandy and the Ohio, one of the greatest scenic highways in America. It will be of much practical value to many counties which long have suffered the ill effects of isolation.

Misses Rebekah and Kathleen Lackey and Hannah O'Brien, of Louisville, who have been in Detroit, Mich., for some time, and Miss Kate Moore, of Cincinnati, were guests on Christmas of Mrs. Margaret O'Brien Bird, formerly of Louisville, at her home at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Three Escape From Jail in Boyd County

Ashland, Ky., Dec. 26.—Three prisoners escaped from the Boyd county jail last night, this being the third jail delivery in two weeks. When Jailer John White went to feed the prisoners the iron gate was swung open and he found three prisoners had made their escape. One was Minard Estep, convicted of killing Frank Goodman. Estep was to have been electrocuted, but was granted a new trial.

The other prisoners were John Lester, charged with forgery, and John France, charged with moonshining. The men by some means got hold of the jail key and regained their freedom. The other prisoners refused to take advantage of the opportunity of escaping.

Tom Jones, convicted for murder and given a new trial, was awakened by the prisoners and told to escape, but he refused to leave the jail. He is from Greenup county.

BIG COAL DEAL IMMINENT

It is learned on reliable authority that negotiations for the purchase of the Red Jacket Consolidated Coal & Coke Co., and the Red Jacket Junior Coal Co., have progressed to an extent that practically assures the consummation of the big deal within the next two or three weeks. It is confidently expected that the extensive properties will be turned over to the purchasers by the first of the new year.—Williamson News.

STATE ENGINEER MEET WITH COURT

Fine Speech Made by Mr. Scanlan on How to Proceed and Kinds of Road.

Hon. T. S. Scanlan, of Huntington, made a most practical road talk yesterday afternoon to the Lawrence Fiscal Court and some members of the Advisory Commission. There were five of the eight commissioners present, and all the fiscal court except one.

The closest attention was given to Mr. Scanlan's address and much valuable information was imparted. The court was endeavoring to get the right start, with a good general idea of the policy to pursue.

Mr. Scanlan has no object except to give us, his neighbors, the benefit of all his experience and knowledge, covering years in various departments of the business. He advises getting as many miles as possible of roads good enough to meet the demands of our traffic. We believe this is what the people of Lawrence county, and what the county officials propose to give them.

Let's keep it moving.

The court is calling for a State Engineer to meet with the body as soon as possible to make the necessary orders and applications to secure State and Federal aid. This will be done within a week or ten days if possible.

Louisa Gets Favorable Editorial Notice From Huntington Newspaper

The Herald Dispatch says:

A postcard from a Louisa, Kentucky business man reminds the Herald-Dispatch that in proclaiming prosperity for Huntington and the Tri-State, Louisa is entitled to special mention, does not come amiss, though in a mental survey of the community no sweep of recollection could pass over the classic little city as the junction of the equally classic Tug and Levisa rivers, whose union creates the more than ever famous Big Sandy. Louisa is just now taking on a new baptism of prosperity, owing to the extensive and successful oil development now in progress in a circle which entirely envelops the town.

It includes every store, every factory, every working man, every jobbing house, every coal operator, every railway man and every farmer that will undertake to improve the opportunity that is present.

The world needs all that we can produce. It needs our furniture, our coal, our glass and pottery products. It is offering almost fabulous prices for our tobacco. There is nothing that Huntington is prepared to make that the world is not ready and even anxious to buy to the very limit. And it will take every barrel of Louisa's oil at the highest price ever paid for the quality—and a mighty good quality it is.

Mrs. Helen Gearhart and daughter, Miss Sallie, returned Sunday from a visit of several days with relatives in Huntington. Charleston and Ashland. Upon their return home they found that Mrs. Gearhart's brother, Mr. Wm. Spencer, had arrived for a visit to them and R. A. Stone and family. He is from Kansas City, Mo., and had not been in Kentucky for thirty-five years.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING MONDAY NIGHT, CITY HALL

Organization of Important Body to be Completed at That Time

All business and professional men and citizens of Louisa, as well as the oil men interested here, are invited and urged to be present at a meeting to be held at the city hall in Louisa next Monday night at 7 o'clock. In accordance with the agreement made at a meeting held in connection with the city council recently the organization of a Board of Trade will be completed Monday evening.

The need of a strong organization to work for the growth of Louisa and Lawrence county was never so great as at present. The opportunities for big results were never so numerous as now, with all the development at hand, and with good roads and paved streets already assured.

Enterprises of various kinds can be secured by united effort on the part of business men.

The Board of Trade must be a live body, with broad plans and liberal support. No ten cent schemes are worth anything in such a movement. Our citizens will have to get in the frame of mind to attempt larger things than ever before. To do this means that we will have to shake ourselves and take on visions that have never before been entertained.

The chance is here. Are we capable of taking advantage of it?

Marriage of Miss Wilson and Mr. A. H. Owen

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Clifford Wilson, of this city, and Mr. A. H. Owen. The wedding took place on last Monday afternoon at 1:30 at the residence of Rev. W. C. Reeves in Ashland. The impressive ceremony was held by Rev. Hurlbutt, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lexington, Ohio. The bride wore a traveling suit of brown with hat to match. The happy couple left the same afternoon for Charleston and other points in West Virginia to spend a few days.

Mr. Owen came to Louisa about two years ago on business connected with the telephone company with which he now holds a position. It was while here he met Miss Wilson. Later he was in service in France several months and upon his return secured the place he formerly held with the company.

His visits to Louisa were quite frequent and while friends of the couple were expecting a culmination of the courtship at an early date the announcement came as a surprise.

Miss Wilson was visiting relatives in Huntington and Ashland during the holiday vacation and was expected home this week. She is a teacher in the Louisa Graded Schools. She will probably return here and finish the school term which ends in May.

The bride is popular among her friends and is considered one of Louisa's brightest young women. She is a graduate of the High School and Scientific departments of Kentucky Normal College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wilson.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Owen of Simpsonville, Ky. He comes highly recommended and has impressed his acquaintances here with being a worthy young man.

They will probably reside at Clentennin, W. Va., which is Mr. Owens' headquarters.

COURT AND BOARD CONFER ON ROADS

The Fiscal Court and the advisory commission appointed by the court to assist with the big task of building the roads voted under the recent bond issue, met Thursday of this week for the first discussion of plans to get the road work started.

Hon. T. S. Scanlan, of Huntington, very kindly consented to come over and give them the benefit of his large experience in road building. He arranged to come via N. & W. train at 2 p. m. Previous to his arrival there was a discussion among the court and board and county attorney D. L. Thompson.

The intention is to go ahead with the plans as rapidly as possible. The people are inquiring every day about work is expected to start. It is very evident that the people of Lawrence county want hard roads and want them as quickly as possible.

Revival Meetings in Louisa Every Afternoon and Night

The revival services at the M. E. Church South began last Sunday, with preaching every afternoon and night. The attendance is increasing. The pastor, Rev. James D. Bell, is preaching very forcefully. Members of the other congregations of the town are attending. Everybody is invited to attend and take part in the meetings.

Lawrence Fiscal Court Rejects Bridge Bid

The Lawrence Fiscal Court is in session this week making a settlement with the Sheriff and attending to some other important business.

A bridge letting was advertised for Monday, for a bridge near the mouth of Cart, but only one bid was received and it was very properly rejected. The Champion Bridge company presented a bid on plans furnished by itself. The court probably takes the position that all bids must be on the same plans and these should be prepared in advance of the bidding and placed at the disposal of all bidders. Otherwise it is impossible to know what the lowest bid is, or whether the bridge adopted will be satisfactory. There is nothing more important in the work of the fiscal court than to be certain about the bridge plans and to see that the construction is properly done.

PEOPLE ARE MOVING.

O. G. Smith and family have moved to Ashland. C. B. Bromley, who bought the Smith property has moved into it. J. P. Gartin will occupy the house vacated by the Bromleys' and Wm. Taylor and family are moving from the Shannon farm to the place in lower Louisa recently purchased from Mr. Gartin.

OIL WELL IN CARTER.

Grayson, Ky.—The Lawton Oil & Gas Co. brought in a 15-barrel well twenty miles west of here and has derricks upon adjoining leases.

$10,000 FOR THE HEIRS OF GUY E. WARREN, SOLDIER

Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Carter, Sr., of Yatesville, this county, took a boy from the Children's Home Society to raise. His name was Guy Warren. After Mr. Carter's death the boy took $200 belonging to Mrs. Carter, but after a few days was induced to admit the fact and return the money. After that he was returned to the Society, and afterward placed in the home of a family at Owensboro. His tendency to take what did not belong to him caused trouble again and he was sent to the Kentucky House of Reform.

The following dispatch to the Courier-Journal refers to this boy, who made amends to his country by giving his life for its cause:

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 30.—Deserted by his parents in his infancy, Guy E. Warren, a foundling, has left $10,000 to them. Now they cannot be found.

Warren fought in the American drive at Chateau Thierry and was among the first to fall. He was the first Madison county boy killed in the war.

He had taken out $10,000 insurance payable to his estate, but so far as is known left no relatives.

Madison Post, American Legion, is seeking his heirs.

BIG ROAD MEETING IN ASHLAND JAN. 17

The Ashland Independent says: The Midland Trail Association for Kentucky will hold a great meeting in Ashland on January 17, 1920. The object of the meeting will be to hear reports from the various counties as to what will be done with the Midland Trail in this State during the coming year.

The Midland Trail through Boyd county is a Federal aid project. Boyd county voted her bonds and accepted the proposition of the State and Federal aid last year and the work of building the Midland Trail through Boyd county is now almost half completed and can easily be completed next year.

But the situation in Bath and Rowan and some of the other counties nearby is so good.

The object of this Midland Trail meeting, on January 17th is to stipulate interest in this movement by having a big gathering of men from all this section of the state. But there will be others who are interested.

Lexington and Louisville are planning to run special trains here on this date and bring at least five hundred delegates from these two cities.

Rodman Wiley, vice president of the Midland Trail Association, is sending out literature urging farmers and business men to attend this meeting and stating that we ought to have two thousand good roads boosters here on the above date.

The people from the Big Sandy section are also invited to attend this meeting as it is proposed to link up the Big Sandy and Old Dominion Highway with the Midland Trail.

The people of the Big Sandy valley are all interested in the good roads movement and many business men from that section are sure to attend the meeting.

The Ashland Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club are going to take the lead in furnishing the entertainment and we understand committees will be appointed right away to see about arranging for a buffet luncheon which will be served at the Elks' Home and also the arrangement of the program which will be carried out at this meeting.

BETTER PRICE FOR OIL ENCOURAGING DEVELOPMENT HERE

Work Going Along in Spite of Bad Weather and Worse Roads.

An Active Company.

The New Domain Oil & Gas Company is pushing its development in Lawrence county in a manner very satisfactory to the land owners. This company is responsible for the development of land near the mouth of Two Mile creek that had stood condemned for several years as the result of a well drilled by parties looking for big producers when the price of oil was very low.

The company is also developing leases in the Busseyville field and has drilled the best well that has been found there.

Also, this company has a 300 acre lease in the upper Blaine field that looks to be valuable. Mr. Ben Hardin, who represents the company in the lease department, has shown good judgment in acquiring property.

Mr. Castner is the efficient manager of the field operations.

A Big Operator.

Mr. T. F. Maloney is getting fairly started on the Lackey farm. Later he will do some development work on Lick Creek, where he holds a considerable body of leases. Mr. Maloney owns valuable producing property in Lee county. He has been in the oil business for many years and knows the business thoroughly. He has been very successful. We are fortunate to get him into this field.

The Blaine Field.

The Union Gas & Oil Company is now pumping the last well drilled on D. W. Skaggs' farm and it is giving excellent results. Also, the J. J. Gambill No. 1 is doing fine.

The J. Israelsky well is now ready to case, having reached a depth of 400 feet. It is on the Wm. Weaver lease on Knob branch. Stevens & Garrison are drilling the well.

The Morris well was shot yesterday. It is believed this will make a small producer.

Oil is Now Higher.

The report in the NEWS last week of an advance of 25 cents per barrel in the price of oil has been confirmed. An effort is being made to get the Pennsylvania price for Lawrence county oil.

(Another advance of 15c per barrel has been made since the above was written.)

In Other Counties.

In Magoffin county, one of the newer prospects in the Eastern Kentucky district, a gas well showing a yield of 1,000,000 feet was drilled by White and others, on the Love lease. The gas was found at 1,900 feet, in the Berea grit. This is the deepest well yet drilled in that county. On the Phipps lease the Red Rock Oil company, which has a number of good wells, got a ten-barrel showing in its latest completion. Several scattered wells are reported from advance operations. In Breathitt county Fulton & Hurst have a small well on the Watkins lease.

The 200 barrel well reported in Johnson county is not that large, but it is a good one and will mean much to that county.

This article from the Courier-Journal refers to the well mentioned above: Sobel and others' No. 1 Well lease, on Painters Lick of Little Paint Creek, in Magoffin county, has made a number of flows since coming in a few days ago and is now said to be good for 100 barrels. This well defines the present acre of the Magoffin pool to be from two to three miles.

Dry Leader at Catlettsburg is State Senator

The day of the prohibitionist is here, even in Catlettsburg, as witnessed by the political ascendancy of Brig. Harris, who for many years operated the Gate City's temperance tavern, officially known as The Brig Harris Hotel. He is now Senator Harris and leaves in a few days for Frankfort where on next Tuesday he will take his seat in the upper house of the Kentucky legislature. He was elected without opposition to represent the counties of Boyd, Lawrence, Johnson and Martin. He was a member of the house of delegates in the last legislature. His candidacy in that race proved so formidable that he was unopposed when he stood for the upper house.

When Mr. Harris first entered the hotel business in Catlettsburg, operating, as was highly unusual, without a bar, he was warned that he couldn't make a success that way. He continued to operate, however, and began to be active as an anti-saloon man. Sorrowful friends told him that he would be ruined if he continued to stand out against the wets but this didn't phase him. A few years ago he sold his hotel but his part in the anti-saloon fight continued. Catlettsburg never became dry of its own accord, but the dry leader rose, nevertheless to position and influence through the confidence of his neighbors, wets and dries alike. He feels that his activities against the saloon and those of all others have now been fully vindicated and that the blessings derived from the absence of the saloon and of drink will accrue long and constantly.—Herald Dispatch.

How Catlettsburg Thugs Now Amuse Themselves

A young man from Van Lear went to Catlettsburg a few days ago to have a "good time" in that old time, out of date way. He had saved more than $400 from wages in the mines, and like an old timer was carrying it around on his person instead of depositing it in bank. Either he had not heard that Catlettsburg is dry along with the United States, or he didn't believe it. Arriving at Catlettsburg he slipped up to the most disreputable looking fellow in sight and asked if he could cite him to some liquor. The fellow said yes, and told him to wait for a signal. The signal came from a doorway and was promptly answered. As the young man entered he was overpowered by three men, robbed of all but 50 cents of his money, and thrown into the discard. When he untangled himself and got out the coast was clear. No trace of the robbers was found and the young man, sadder and wiser, made his way to Louisa on half fare. Here he had friends who helped him on to Van Lear to start life over again.

Those Catlettsburg fellows formerly took a man's money and sent him home drunk. The new game is to take his money and send him home sober.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

The following is an advertisement of a large motor truck company. It smacks so of American patriotism and the national needs of the moment that it is reproduced here with the hope that it may "soak in" and bring about increased production, if only in a small measure.

Citizens Of The United States:
What are you planning to do in 1920?
Are you going to Talk, Talk, Talk
And Talk some more
Are you going to Theorize, Theorize,
Theorize,
And Theorize some more
Are you going to Confer, Confer, Confer
And Confer some more
Are you going to Spend, Spend, Spend
And Spend some more
Are you going to Speculate, Speculate,
Speculate
And Speculate some more
Are you going to Strike, Strike, Strike
And Strike some more OR
Will you work more
Will you produce more
Will you save more
That is the only way possible for real Americans to do their solemn duty and save the country.
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR WORK.

Have you ever been in a home that was run on a hit and miss plan? In such a home, one member of the family is always asking another where some lost article is—it may be anything from a pie tin to a tooth brush. Consequently, when a meal is served, there are always some of the implements missing, or the sugar spoon is used for the gravy ladle. Here the articles of furniture look as if they did not know which room they belonged in; it takes an hour to get the particular magazine and chair assembled. The member of the family always seems to be patiently waiting for one cluttered spot to another. It is very amusing to go into such a home—but remember this—it is only amusing when you go in and come right out again.

The old codgers who kick about the foolish cost of Christmas never fool anyone. It's mostly sour grapes on their part. We all know that it does us a lot of good to give someone else just what they want, or maybe a thing that we would like to have ourselves, whether the act is tinged with the thought of what we are going to get in return, or not. Of course, the spirit of giving may be carried to excess, but this never happens to the people who could afford it. Such giving is characteristic of the unselfish poor who must scrimp to make it up. If you happen to know one of these moss-backs who thinks Christmas giving is a foolish pastime, keep at him this Christmas until you make him give where it is needed. All you need to do is to show him that someone is interested, and cares a lot about whether he does the right thing or not. Once he has tried it, he will get so much pleasure out of it that he will not need anyone to start him next year.

Are you careful to see that only correct conversation goes on ordinarily in your home? If you have young children, it's imperative that you do this. You know from the way in which a child acquires a swear word, how quickly he will seize upon an incorrect expression. It is doubly difficult to discourage the conscious use of the grammatical errors, which have become unconsciously fixed in childhood, when he grows up. Baby talk is adorable, but such words as "ain't got" and "ain't see no," and the like, are never pretty on any child's lips and cannot be corrected too young. A knowledge of the correct use of the English language is the greatest inheritance toward success in life that you can leave a child. The place to begin this lesson is in the home before the child reaches school age, when he is bound to hear imperfections outside of his home. He must learn to know the difference between correct and incorrect usage, and to cultivate an instinctive sense of the right word at the right time. You and he can accomplish this, if you will take the time, and exercise the necessary patience.

High Spots on Hell's Highway.
There's an evil in the country,
There's an evil in the county,
But it's labeled "up-to-date."
Yet it mutilates the morals
Of our youngsters in advance
Every time low-necked women
Hug them in the "Chemise Dance."

There's a real wrong in the country,
There's a real wrong in the state,
But it's labeled "up-to-date."
Yet it shocks a chaste man's morals
When a Southern maiden begs
For the mid-front auto seat,
And hugs its lever with her leers.

There's a disgrace in the country,
There's a disgrace in the state,
But it's labeled "up-to-date."
Yet it betrays mankind's morals
Of beheld beneath the arms
Of bare-legged, bare-breasted bathers,
Blind to Virtue's secret charms.

There's a reaping to our sowing,
Both in country and in state,
And we're hurrying hellward toward it
With a speed that's "up-to-date";
While the daddies in our churches
Semi-allegedly ignore,
They, like knaves, are knuckling to it,
For they're coward to the core.

The Mothers of Tomorrow.
Tis a fact, not foolish fiction
From a novelistic brain,
That Morality is dying,
And religion's on the wane;
But we shudder for the future
When we hear its whispers say,
That the mothers of tomorrow
Are the maidens of today.

Hope, herself, hands out no promise,
Faith without his works is dead,
Charity, that grace of graces,
From a wicked world is fled;
Since it is a truth eternal
As the nightshade's milky way,
That the mothers of tomorrow
Are the maidens of today.

Burn the dance-hall down to ashes,
Drain the hell-pool's every drop,
Batter every pleasure auto
Till its midnight horrors stop—
Throw the same arm of protection
Round our girlhood while we may,
For the mothers of tomorrow
Are the maidens of today.

Virtue is the crowning jewel
Of a Southern maiden's breast—
Modesty is Virtue's handmaid,
Hiding her from Scandal's jest—
And the train are twin-protectors
All about Love's right-of-way—
O, the mothers of tomorrow,
Are the maidens of today.

I cannot refrain from remarking, after recent exhibitions of supposedly good manners have come to my attention, that above all things good manners and ostentation are as far apart as the planets. When you try to force your "good manners" on people, they promptly become bad manners. If the occasion should arise for you to perform a slight service for someone, don't make a fuss about it. Better leave it undone than to do it in a way that will make the object of your service feel under obligations to you.

The other day I noticed a young lady helping an elderly lady put on her coat, and she made it seem so much like a service which youth must render age that the old lady became vexed and her vexation was pictured in her face. I imagine she wanted to tell the young woman she was "perfectly" able to get into her own coat and please to stop fussing about it and attracting every one's attention. This could so easily have been a nice little courtesy, that it seems a shame the young woman's false sense of breeding should have spoiled it. Good breeding makes itself known in a very quiet and unassuming way.

Thoroughbreds Are Sold At Fancy Figures

Fashionable Gatherings at Saratoga When Aristocracy of Horse Family Are Placed on the Block.

An astonishing expansion of the thoroughbred horse sales business and an amazing increase in thoroughbred values is revealed in the east up of the eastern traffic in running horse stock for the fiscal year ending August 31, by E. J. Tranter, president of the Fasig-Tipton Company of New York. The Fasig-Tipton Company has unqualified control of the eastern sales business now. And the sales in so far as thoroughbred yearlings offered in the eastern market are concerned are held mainly in the month of August, and conducted in a splendidly appointed establishment built by Mr. Tranter three or four seasons back after the best European models, but with certain American establishments. Everybody who is anything in the thoroughbred world, or ever hopes to be, flocks to Saratoga in August. The thoroughbred yearling sales, and especially those held at night under the glare of electric arcs, have become social functions. Men never think of going out to the night sales from the palatial cottages and the great hotels save in evening dress. Women attend them invariably in evening dress, or undress, according to one's point of view.

The best appreciation of the expansion of the thoroughbred auction sales business and of the increase in thoroughbred values is to be obtained by comparing the records of 1919 with the records of 1917 and 1918. Two hundred and seventy-three yearlings were led to the auction block in 1917 and they brought a total of $388,275, an average of $1,424 a head. Sixty-seven horses of racing age brought $116,100, an average of $1,732 a head. In 1918 two hundred and thirty-five thoroughbred yearlings brought a total of $248,620, an average of $1,657 a head; nine brood mares fetched $29,950, an average of $2,327 a head; and 152 horses of racing age fetched $200,810, an average of $1,321 a head.

Run Into Big Money.

More than three-quarters of a million dollars—$750,000 to be exact—was realized at the auction block at Saratoga for the thoroughbreds the Tranter Company offered to bidders. Two hundred and twenty-seven yearlings brought $900,500, an average of $2,658 a head; nineteen broodmares fetched $136,300, an average of $7,173 a head; three stallions brought $21,800, an average of $7,267; and eighty-three horses in training fetched $117,610, an average of $1,417. These figures relate mostly to the auction sales business. Many horses of various ages have been bought and sold privately. Monford Jones paid $40,000 in June for the 2-year-old Brookhedge, a son of Ballot. S. C. Hildreth paid $17,500 for Downhough, a son of Peter Quince. Hildreth is said to have refused an offer of $150,000 for the three-year-old Purchase. Larry Waterbury, a successful New York broker, paid $20,000 for the three-year-old Semmings Park. Mr. Tranter, who keeps a close watch on the thoroughbred market, generally estimates that some two and a half million dollars will have changed hands in transactions in thoroughbred blood before the first of the year. Many horses of various ages will be sold in Kentucky this fall.

It was thought that the top limit of American buyers as regards auction sales prices was reached in the summer of 1918 when Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, of Philadelphia, paid $15,000 for a French-bred yearling by Sweeper out of Zuna, which won the Saratoga Special in August under the name of Golden Brook; when Commander J. K. L. Ross, of Montreal, paid $14,500 for a colt by Black Jester out of Primula, and Joseph E. Widener paid $14,000 for a son of Vulcan and Fairy Gold which claims Friar Rock, Fair Play and Filtergold for half brothers. But this year has been badly shattered. Ten thousand dollars and $15,000 were common prices for good looking thoroughbreds last August. A breeder offering a youngster that looked like a thoroughbred and boasted of a fair pedigree who failed to get from $5,000 to $8,000 for his stuff went back to Kentucky or Virginia utterly disgusted.

A Few Big Prices.

W. V. Thraves, a Virginian, who is about to embark on a thoroughbred producing enterprise at Long Ridge Farm in Fayette county, Ky., paid $24,500 for a yearling son of Ulmus offered by John Oliver Keene. Commander Ross paid $25,000 for an imported son of Sunstar and Marian Hood. Philip T. Chinn, acting for Mr. Waterbury, paid $22,500 for a son of Celt and Sand Dune that claims the sprinter The Boy for half brother. W. R. Cog paid $15,000 for a brown son of Celt and Patricia IV. Commander Ross paid $36,000 for Melody, a broodmare by Meddler out of Ballantyne, that was offered at the dispersal sale of the Mackay stud.

The yearlings from Claiborne and Ellerslie studs offered by Arthur B. Hancock brought the unexpected total of $146,200, an average from Claiborne of $3,071.43 and for Ellerslie of $6,070.50. Other breeders of American stock that is in vogue just now fared equally well—Adv.

A vast amount of work now remains to be done which the intervention of war has necessarily delayed and accumulated, and the result is that a very large capital expenditure ought to be made to make up for the interruptions inevitably due to the war, and to prepare the railroad to serve adequately the increased traffic throughout the country.

WALKER D. HINES
Director General of Railroads.

Work more— Produce more— Save more—

But we can't continue increasing our production unless we continue increasing our railroad facilities.

The farms, mines and factories cannot increase their output beyond the capacity of the railroads to haul their products.

Railroads are now near the peak of their carrying capacity.

Without railroad expansion—more engines, more cars, more tracks, more terminals—there can be little increase in production.

But this country of ours is going to keep right on growing—and the railroads must grow with it.

To command in the investment markets the flow of new capital to expand railroad facilities—and so increase production—there must be public confidence in the future earning power of railroads.

The nation's business can grow only as fast as the railroads grow.

The Kentucky Legislature will meet next Tuesday. The House has a Republican majority. The Senate is Democratic by two majority.

Billy Sunday is very much elated over the fact that this country soon will be so dry that it will be necessary to "prime a man before he can spit."

The Department of Justice deserves the praise and encouragement of all loyal people for its work in deporting anarchists by the shipload. Thousands are slated to go. Keep up the good work.

Scores of newspapers throughout the country are being forced to suspend or quit business entirely because of the shortage in blank news paper. The Cincinnati Democrat of last week says it has just paid $170 per ton for paper that we all used to buy for $45.

President Wilson has announced that the railroads will be returned by the government to the private owners March 1st. Although the trial was made under war conditions the experience of government operation of railroads has been sufficient to kill the proposition. It is worth what it cost if the government ownership dream is ended.

The Legislature of Kentucky would do well to consider enlarging the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission so as to make it a Public Service Commission similar to that of West Virginia. There are other things that need regulating as well as railroads. The price of gas would not be so much higher on this side of Big Sandy river than on the other.

If Congress doesn't weaken the United States will soon have a law that will make railroad strikes unlawful. The rights of the general public make such a law necessary. Not only the prosperity, but the health and the lives of the people are dependent upon continuous operation of the railroads. The country has outgrown its railway systems because for 12 or 15 years the tendency of Congress was to hamper the railroad business with extreme regulations, increasing operating costs and reducing revenues to such an extent that capital could not be obtained for railroad building and betterment. It is now absolutely necessary to release the roads under moderate regulation and give them a chance to catch up.

The man who announced in Congress recently that one of the real obstacles to securing an adequate coal supply is the shortage of railroad cars stated a very pertinent fact. When mines are working above 60 per cent capacity there are not enough cars to handle the production. The railroads have not been able to buy enough cars for many years because of over-regulation. No little jerk-water road has been permitted to change the time of a passenger train ten minutes without first submitting the momentous proposition to the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington for approval. Such fool regulations as this have made necessary enormous increases in clerical forces and have slowed up operation to a disastrous extent. Freight rates to meet these increases were denied. Roads could not earn enough to pay interest on their indebtedness. Extensions and improvements were impossible under such conditions. Deterioration and failure to keep up with the development of the country is the result and the public is now paying the penalty.

THE RURAL MAIL-CARRIER.

(By Walt Mason)

In winter, when the tempests rage, I sit in my upholstered cage, before a cheery blaze, and think about the postman bold who, in the blizzard raw and cold, undaunted goes their ways. I see them as from town they go, to journey thirty miles or so, o'er beastly country roads, and wish I had J. Milton's lyre, that I might sing, with proper fire, some eulogistic odes. When wintry tempest rips and tears, we snuggle down in cozy chairs, and read detective tales; but on his route the postman goes, and faces every wind that blows, and all the tin-horn gales. Through every kind of misfit storm, while others bask in houses warm, the postman has to chase; the sleet is made of frozen rain, and where it hits it leaves a pain—all day it swats his face. The snow lands on him by the peck, the rain is running down his neck, Dame Nature's maulin tears; still, still he drives through mud and sleet, his shoes are full of frozen feet, and slush is in his ears. He earns a hundred bones a day; alas, alas, his meager pay deserves the country's scorn; his children cry in vain for pie, for he has just enough to buy his pony hay and corn.

REV. F. F. SHANNON
NOW IN CHICAGO

Next Sunday will find Rev. Fred Shannon in his new pulpit, Central Church, Chicago.

The friends of his home town will be pleased to read the following unusual tributes:

A Loss to Brooklyn.

Editorial from the Brooklyn Eagle: The request of the Rev. Dr. Frederick F. Shannon to be relieved as pastor of the Reformed Church of the Heights means that he will go to Chicago early in January to take the pulpit of the Central Church there. This is perhaps the most flourishing body of worshippers in the world that is not formally connected with any denomination. It is, of course, congregational in government, but not affiliated with the Congregationalist communion. It has preferred not to build or buy a church edifice, holding that the appeal to the people can best be made from a public hall. The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis came from this Central Church to Brooklyn to take the Plymouth pulpit. His successor was the Rev. Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus, whose place Dr. Shannon is to fill.

An Eastern Kentucky boy, of mountain stock, Frederick F. Shannon fought his way through school and college and seminary. He became an ordained Methodist minister. His eloquence, his logic and his pleasant personality won friends fast. But the change of pulpits after relatively short intervals which is part of the Methodist system seemed hard to him, and seven years ago he accepted the call to the Reformed Church on the Heights. He never has been in the stricter sense of the term a denominationalist. Neither has he been a separatist. He should be especially fitted for the work he is going to do in Chicago.

Large numbers of personal friends and admirers will regret Dr. Shannon's removal from Brooklyn. All will wish him well, wherever he goes. All will remember him as a kindly man, a devoted man, and a preacher who had few rivals, even in what we still like to call "the City of Churches."

Tribute by Dr. Gunsaulus.

At the congregational meeting of Central Church, Chicago, which unanimously called Dr. Frederick F. Shannon to its pastorate, the following letter from Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus was read by H. E. Sunny, president of the board of trustees. "Dr. Shannon's work," says Mr. Sunny, "has been generously recognized by his associates in the pulpit and elsewhere—Hillis, Cadman, Burrell and others—and as the years go by his work will no doubt elicit many similar expressions of approval and admiration. I doubt, however, if anything of the kind can ever exceed this beautiful tribute by Dr. Gunsaulus." The letter is as follows:

"My dear Mr. Sunny: It is impossible for me to state in moderate terms my hope that Central Church will unanimously call to its pastorate and pulpit Rev. Dr. Frederick F. Shannon of Brooklyn.

"For at least ten years I have been intimately acquainted with him and for more years than these I knew of that promise which has recently burst forth into full realization. I could only wish that every member of our church and congregation may have the opportunity of the Christian friendship with which this beloved man has honored me. I would have no such interest in his brilliant and cogent reasoning as to righteousness and a judgment to come if he were not personally the frank, clean-souled follower of his Master, whom I have known only to love. His crisp and sparkling sentences and his resonant appeals would be less than interesting to me, if he were not a valiant lover of his Master, for whom every thought and word is a loyal service and championship.

"I need not speak of his gifts and graces in the pulpit. I only know that his power to feed the sheep lies largely in the fact that he is constitutionally a shepherd of the sheep.

"To see my precious Central Church pass into the hands of my beloved friend is more than I could have dreamed of, through all the years in which I have seen him growing stronger and sweeter, more eloquent and more tender, and now one of our outstanding heralds of the great Gospel. I have not dared to speak of him with that fullness of admiration and reverence which are in my heart and mind, because such characterization might create for him problems which he would not care to solve, for he is a laborer in the vineyard of Christ, and has no Master but the Lord of the vineyard.

"If you call him as your minister, you will have one who will make his own congregation from the weary and sad, the sinful and repentant, the struggling and hopeful human beings, to whom this real minister's music will convey its own harmony, and soothe or strengthen with its own full chord.

"He has so much of personality, that you may be sure you will be led into fresh pastures. He is so kind and gentle, and withal so strong, that he will find your homes and your hearts as he has found your heads already, and as he has had my head and heart for a long time.

"Personally, and for my family's sake, all things considered, I can have no more valuable Christmas gift than the news that he will come to you, and the sixty-fourth anniversary of my birth will be one of the brightest when I can give into his hands the holy and blessed interest of my beloved Central Church.

"I offer to him, through you, every resource and desire and loyalty my soul may possess. Faithfully yours—F. W. Gunsaulus."

A NERVOUS WRECK

From Three Years' Suffering. Say: Cardui Made Her Well.

Texas City, Tex.—In an interesting statement, Mrs. G. H. Schill, of this town says: "For three years I suffered untold agony with my head. I was unable to do any of my work.

I just wanted to sleep all the time, for that was the only ease I could get, when I was asleep. I became a nervous wreck, just from the awful suffering with my head.

I was so nervous that the least noise would make me jump out of my bed, I had no energy, and was unable to do anything. My son, a young boy, had to do all my household duties.

I was not able to do anything until I took Cardui. I took three bottles in all, and it surely cured me of those awful headaches. That has been three years ago, and I know the cure is permanent, for I have never had any headache since taking Cardui.

Nothing relieved me until I took Cardui. It did wonders for me."

Try Cardui for your troubles—made from medicinal ingredients recommended in medical books as being of benefit in female troubles, and 40 years of use has proven that the books are right. Begin taking Cardui today.

NURSERY STOCK

We have some apple trees for sale at 25c each and Ever-bearing strawberries at $3 per 100 while they last. Also, other kinds of trees and plants. One of the largest nurseries in the country wanted to buy all we have, but we sold them only one car load, saving the remainder for our local trade. The nursery that bought our apple trees is selling them at 60c each, so you see that we are making a sacrifice to take care of people who order from us direct. Nursery stock is very scarce and high because most of the stocks have been imported from France, and the war almost stopped that. Take advantage of this chance while our stock lasts. 12-12-4t.-pd

KEEP WAR RISK INSURANCE

It is regrettable that so many former service men are not keeping up their Government life insurance issued thru the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in Washington. The fact seems to be due largely to widespread confusion and lack of information as to the right of former service men to permanent Government life insurance, and the process by which this insurance may be retained.

The demobilization of our armed forces was so rapid and attended by such uncertainty on the part of service men as to future civil occupations and permanent places of abode that it was not surprising that many of the men gave little thought to the matter of insurance. Others doubtless thought the original term insurance (War Time Insurance) ceased when they were demobilized and did not know it might be converted into any one of the several forms of permanent Government Life Insurance (Converted Insurance.) Still others, immediately upon their return to civil life, felt financially unable to continue the insurance. They should now take advantage of the liberal provisions for reinstatement.

TUSCOLA

Old Santa Claus has come and gone and the sad requiems of the Old Year are being chanted. As the Old Year fades into oblivion a retrospect shows us the blunders and mistakes of mankind. Some have frittered away their time like the grasshopper and the cold icy fingers of winter grip hard upon them; others by hard work, self denial and economy have their garners well filled and are called by the shiftless, heartless and cruel. There was a time when men would rob their families and debauch themselves to satisfy their thirst for drink but that time is past.

There are other gods at whose shrine the shiftless bow that cause children to go hungry and barefoot and women to go in rags. As the New Year dawns may all start a new page in the ledger of life that when 1920 shall have passed that they will justly be proud of their accomplishments and never again be found in the rut of idleness, poverty and shiftlessness.

Industry and economy will bring success. A glance at the successful men of our country will show how they

Answer Your Telephone Promptly

One habit that will do much to help improve the quality of your telephone service is the habit of answering your telephone promptly.

Promptness in answering is a courtesy that your telephone caller appreciates—delay may cause him to abandon the call.

In one large city records show that on nearly seven out of every 100 telephone calls there is a delay of more than a minute before the called party answers. This occurs thousands of times daily, and in one-fourth of the cases the party calling does not wait.

To help yourself and others to receive a better quality of telephone service, why not make it an invariable rule to answer your telephone promptly?

DENNIS

The beautiful snow covers the earth and the bleak wind sings sad requiems to the old dying year. As the New Year is ushered in many resolutions and good thoughts will be made and thought out, but few will last through the New Year.

The little hovels called homes that dot every community show that there is something wrong with the people that live in such a way or the laws favor the other fellow.

We believe that thrift comes to the ones that have learned the principles of economy, self denial and are willing to labor and to wait. God helps them that help themselves.

Many blunders and mistakes have been made during the old year but we ought to profit by our mistakes and not fall into the same mudhole the second time. The age in which we live calls for men and women that can do things and are not afraid of hard work. The prize is always at the end of the race.

The boys and girls of today will be the men and women of tomorrow and they should improve every moment of their time that they may be ready for the responsibilities when they shall devolve upon them.

The state expends vast sums of money each year to educate the boys and girls and to eradicate illiteracy, but the cry goes forth that there are great numbers of our citizenry unable to read and write. My heart swells with emotion as I think of the condition of our state and I wonder what a school girl could do to help improve the conditions.

The recent vote for bonds to build good roads in our county has revived hope in the breast of every progressive man, woman or child in our county and will make many remain in our county that had resolved to leave in case the bond issue was defeated.

We need all the progressive citizens we can get to help stamp out illiteracy and advance the cause of education in every conceivable way possible. When our boys and girls fully realize what a complete education means there will be fewer illiterates and better homes. With better homes we shall see better churches and better communities in every respect. We need greater fraternalism and this can come only by a better understanding of each other's needs. We do not expect to see the millennium dawn at once but we can all do something to help usher in the glad time.

The Olivette school will close the 9th of January with a school entertainment. The attendance of the Olivette school is, perhaps, the best in the county. The interest is also very good.

ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF HORSES

ENEMY ALLOWED TO ESCAPE

Work of Remount Board Must Receive
Thoughtful Encouragement of All
Americans if We Are to Occupy
Place of World Leadership.

No phase of the vital subject of national defense is of higher significance than the proposition of military horse supply. The military side of American life means more now than the United States has, perforce, assumed a dominant role in world politics, than it has in the past. It is agreed by farseeing statesmen that economic and political eventualities will in a decade or so force the United States into a position of military leadership in the world whether that sort of leadership may seem desirable to the great majority of the people or not.

It is hardly necessary to say that the great war proved that, more than ever is the horse, and the right sort of horse, indispensable to the successful prosecution of military operations. It is only repetition to say that the strategy of the American expeditionary force in France last year and the year before was repeatedly and seriously embarrassed by the woeful insufficiency of its horse equipment and of the discouraging inefficiency of the horses that were sent overseas by the hardworked remount division of the army on this side, albeit these animals were the very best the country had to send. They were the combings of the entire country.

Supply of Allies Depleted.

The embarrassment of the armistice of the powers associated with the United States in the struggle against German world domination was not so great as was that experienced by the forces of Pershing, but it was serious nevertheless. The horse supply of Great Britain and France, although reinforced by tremendous importations from the United States, South America, South Africa, Canada and Australia, had been terribly depleted by the casualties of three years of fighting by the time our armies became formidable. No replacements were available.

Thousands of fine young lives were sacrificed in the titanic struggle that raged from the English channel to the frontier of Switzerland from the beginning of 1918 to the middle of November because the underhorsing of allied artillery limited the protection that artillery should have rendered to the attacking infantry. Ludendorf repeatedly refers in his story of the German defeat to merciful pauses (merciful to the hard pressed German army) in the French, British and American attack that enabled his commanders to extricate hard fighting divisions from perilous positions that were necessitated by the inability of the attacking artillery and transport services to keep pace with the advancing infantry.

Unnecessary hardship had to be endured by the combat troops of the advancing forces of civilization because poor horsing in the transport services rendered impossible the bringing up of supplies in punctual military fashion.

The fruits of victory were lost time and again because of the impossibility of promptly exploiting the achievements of infantry by the employment of large bodies of cavalry. The lack of cavalry at St. Mihiel, at Chateau Thierry, in the Argonne and at Sedan made American officers steeped in the traditions of Forrest and Stuart, of Pleasanton and Sheridan fairly cry. There were some so called cavalry regiments in the A. E. F., but they were not cavalry. At no time was a single American cavalry regiment mounted.

Victory Would Have Been Great.

Even the cavalry of the British and French armies, which had been fairly well horsed at the beginning of the war and more carefully conserved than had been the cavalry of the other members of the anti-German alliance, was found wholly insufficient to push home victory and convert mere defeats of the German armies into routs in comparison with which the French disasters of Sedan and Metz in 1870 would have been considered by the military writers of the future as orderly military operations.

The entente allies and the United States had about three and a half million soldiers in the field on the western front in October, 1918, when they began to press the previously successful Germans back toward the Rhine in deadly earnest. If 300,000 to 500,000 of these fighting men had been cavalry mounted on half bred horses, the best military opinion in this country and in France and Great Britain holds, the German defeat would have been the most complete and most humiliating defeat in military history. There would have been no fairly orderly withdrawal of the soldiers of the German Crown Prince, of Rupprecht, the Brute, of Van Galwitz, of Von Arnim and of Von Boehn across the Rhine to be received at home as unbeaten heroes. The bulk of the German forces that began their march thrust for Paris and victory in pride and insolence under the eye of the violet picking Hohenzollern paranoiac would have remained on the west bank of the Rhine prisoners of war to begin, when the peace conference directed the restoration of those portions of Belgium and France which they had so barbarously devastated.

Army Allowed to Escape.

There would have been no dickerings for terms, no impudent notes, no outrageous counter proposals to the moderate terms of the plenipotentiaries of outraged civilization. There would have been no malicious flooding of mines in the French coal country. There would have been no sabotage in French and Belgian industrial districts. There would have been no pirating of industrial machinery or wanton destruction of machinery that could not be hurried into Germany to give Kultur a commercial start on the countries Kultur outraged. The disintegrating German military machine would have had no time in which to put over the carefully planned scheme of giving Kultur industrial victory in spite of Kultur military defeat by converting lands already cruelly ravaged by German soldiery into industrial and agricultural wastes.

For generations to come peasant farmers of Belgium and France and industrial workers of Lille, Lens, Bruges, Brussels, Namur, Liege and Mons will deplore the lack of military foresight which failed to provide the armies of Great Britain, France and the United States which expelled the Teutonic invader from their countries in 1918, with adequate cavalry.—Advt.

Pepto-Mangan Has Put Thousands
Into the Healthy, Full-Blooded
Class

How the red-blooded, energetic, and attractive man or woman is envied by those who feel that it will always be their unfortunate lot to be thin, pale, and weak-bodied!

And yet why continue to envy men and women who possess a vigorous healthy physical condition and an attractive, magnetic personality? Poor health and lack of vitality are often merely the result of impoverished blood.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is for people whose bodies suffer from lack of proper blood nourishment. Pepto-Mangan enriches the blood and increases the number of healthy red blood cells, which are so necessary to carry the proper nourishment, vigor, and strength to every part of the body.

Physicians introduced Gude's Pepto-Mangan to the public because they knew that it contained the very properties that are so sorely needed to build up thin, watery blood. For your convenience Pepto-Mangan is prepared in two forms, liquid and tablet. Both contain exactly the same medicinal value.

Insist on the genuine Pepto-Mangan. To be sure you are buying the genuine Pepto-Mangan, ask your druggist for "Gude's." And be sure the name "Gude's" is on the package.

On last Sunday morning the people were all very much shocked when the news came that Rev. Wm. Dixon was dead. He had been at work in Portsmouth, Ohio, for a while and was expected to move his family there in a few days. Brother Dixon was a minister of the Christian Church. He was a good man and loved by all who knew him. He will be greatly missed in this community as he was ever ready to help in time of need. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. Nora Thomasbury of Pikeville, and Mrs. Lora Holbrook of Portsmouth, Ohio.

"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord; they rest from their labors and their works do follow them." Therefore we say to the loved ones, weep not for Uncle Billie, but let your lives be such that when you leave this world of pain and sorrow you will meet him on that beautiful shore where parting will never come. Let us all put our trust in God and say with a pure heart, "Thy will be done." A FRIEND.

A Word About the Fresh
Meat Business

We feel justified in asking for the patronage of the people of Louisa and vicinity in the Meat line because we conduct the business all the year around. It has been the practice here for many years for one or more persons to engage in the fresh meat business during the more profitable season and drop out when warm weather comes with reduced demand for meat and with the heavy expense for ice, etc.

When the price of cattle dropped recently we reduced the price of meat accordingly. It is our intention to treat the public right at all times and to give the best service possible.

We also carry a good line of Groceries and will appreciate your patronage.

If you could buy a friend for $5.00 a year

—a friend with stimulating ideas on national and local problems, one whose views would command as much respect, for instance, as that received by the editorial page of the Louisville Courier-Journal;

—a friend who would meet you early in the day and tell you in a concise, authoritative way about every important world event during the preceding twenty-four hours, quoting what the New York Times was printing the same morning; what the reliable Associated Press was saying about politics, strikes or the High Cost of Living; giving you news which he had received by wire the night before from correspondents at lower Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee;

—a friend who would sit down while you were eating your cereal and draw a cartoon which would make you think, and then some pictures that would make you laugh;

—a friend versatile enough to give you wife just what she wants to know about cooking, shopping and fashions, then entertain the children every day with a forest animal story;

—a friend who is not obtrusive, but who stands ready, any moment during the day to answer your questions about racing, boxing or any other sport—and the next minute "tip you off," if you want him to, on the way stocks are selling on the metropolitan markets.

CONGRESSMEN WANT PUBLIC BUILDINGS

BAD TIME TO MAKE APPROPRIATIONS FOR PORK BARREL PURPOSES.

Washington.—Facing a deficit of several billions of dollars, certain members of Congress have defied the steering committee of the House and will draw and attempt to pass a pork barrel measure in the name of an omnibus public buildings bill for the first time in seven years.

Representative Langley, Kentucky, is chairman of the House Public Buildings Committee, certain members of which have been making careful plans to bring in a public buildings bill.

There are signs that some members of Congress who want to be re-elected in close Congressional districts are hungering for pork and, notwithstanding the policy of leaders that economy in expenditures for public purposes should be rigidly enforced, are planning to win favor at home by trying to have an omnibus public building bill passed at this session of Congress.

There has been no omnibus public building bill passed for seven years. There are Democratic members willing to support such legislation and in the fight that is looming before the House there will be no party lines, the prospect being that members who think they need public buildings in their district to support their campaigns for re-election will run counter to wishes of the steering committee and the party leaders.

The Republican steering committee has not been consulted. The House public buildings committee has divided the country into five districts, with a sub-committee in charge of the consideration of recommendations for public buildings in each district.

On each of these sub-committees there are five members, one of them being a Democrat, the other four Republicans. The chairman of these sub-committees are Representatives Langley, Smith, Dunn, Kridler and Elliott.

In the estimation of men most familiar with pork barrel fights in Congress it will require all the power of the leaders of both parties to head off the threatened raid on the treasury for new public buildings, if, indeed, they can control the situation.

SISTER MUTT.

Frankfort, Ky.—Although there were 8,541 casualties among dogs in Kentucky from gunshot wounds inflicted by the sheriffs during 1919, the number brought to light by the new dog license law still exceeds the number reported by the County Assessors by 65,108, and they killed 2,950 fewer sheep in 1919 than they did in 1918.

The value of the sheep they destroyed was $33,595.60 less than last year, according to compilation made by Mat S. Cohen, Commissioner of Agriculture.

The reduction in the number of sheep killed is attributed to the fact that, even when licensed, dogs must be kept up at night. Since that is the first year for the new law a great many sheep were killed before the organization could be effected to enforce the regulations strictly.

Cohen estimates that the sheep industry has been increased at least 25 per cent since the protective measures have gone into effect.

Dogs reported by the County Assessors numbered 179,128, while licenses were issued for 225,628. 8,245 unlicensed dogs were impounded and 8,318 were killed. In addition 287 kennel licenses were issued for 8,318 dogs.

The number of sheep killed was 3,438 compared with 3,488 in 1918. The value of sheep killed in 1919 was $41,637.71 and in 1918 $75,279.31, according to claims for reparation made by their owners.

Four field men are at work for the department, which received 5 per cent of the license revenues, amounting to $13,110.10, and expended $12,705.65. Expenditures for the year will run about $200 more than that when everything is audited.

The N. & W. station at Wayne will be enlarged soon. Ten feet will be added to the passenger waiting room and twenty feet to the freight depot. The whole building will also be raised on a nearer level to the new hard road grade.

"Chris" Dunkle and Mrs. Bromley Wed.

A Christmas wedding attracting wide interest in this county was the marriage of Mrs. Emma Bromley and C. C. "Chris" Dunkle. Mrs. Bromley, widow of the late J. P. Bromley of Dickson, is the daughter of Chas. W. Ferguson, deceased. For the past year Mrs. Bromley has made Huntington her home. The groom is a prosperous farmer of Lavalette Route on Beech Fork and has a wide circle of friends in the county.

Shower For Bride.

A shower party arranged by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Ferguson was given at the homestead at Elmwood Tuesday night. Those attending were Misses Addie Hunt, Nell Taylor, Eunice and Spize Adkins, Sarah Riggs, Hazel Kirby, Nilla Ketchum, Lucile and Lillian Ferguson; Messrs Grover Hunter, Chapman Allen, Scott Adkins, Earl Mosser, Herman Dean, Sam Ferguson, Elmer Sanson, Zora and Timmie Perry and Dorsey Ketchum; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Wiles.

F. C. ("Nan") Lloyd died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lambert Mills south of Wayne last week. Mr. Lloyd was known throughout this section as the inventor of the Lloyd ironing board which he patented several years ago. This achievement was rewarded with reasonable success and in dozens of homes in this county the Lloyd folding ironing board is being used.

Mr. Lloyd, who was 70 years old, was the father of nine children, 50 grand children and two great grandchildren. Coming to Wayne from Raleigh-co., W. Va., he was first married to Miss Betty Jackson to which union were born the following seven children: Columbus, Pharoah, Mary, Thomas, Ectie, Sanford and Virginia. After the

FARM BUREAU TO BE ORGANIZED

LAWRENCE COUNTY FARMERS TO BE GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO JOIN IN THE MOVEMENT.

The farmers of Lawrence county should be thinking whether they are going to organize a Farm Bureau and how soon. Eighty-three counties are now organized in State of Kentucky. Other states are leading us. It is the greatest move ever undertaken by the farmers of the Nation. It is the solution to the farmers' problem.

The County Agent will hold meetings in each precinct of the county in the near future to explain the movement and talk it over with the farmers. Watch for the meeting in your school house. Also your neighbors will call on you for your membership in the Lawrence County Farm Bureau. Be as progressive as they, and visit them first.

Possibly you ask yourself,

What is A Farm Bureau?

A Farm Bureau may be compared to a telephone. If you want to talk to your neighbor, you do not expect the telephone to do the talking, but you talk THROUGH the telephone.

The Farm Bureau is not to help the farmer, but to enable the farmer to help himself.

A Farm Bureau is an organization of the farmers, for the farmers, and by the farmers. It is non-secret and non-partisan. Its membership is made up of men who own or operate a farm. It elects its own officers, handles its own funds and attends to its own business. It does not delegate blanket authority to any man or groups of men, but KEEPS THE POWER OF CONTROL IN THE HANDS OF THE FARMER.

It co-operates with the College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, and directs the work of the County Agent. It co-operates with other farm organizations to co-ordinate the efforts of all of them.

It handles through its Officers and Executive Board and appointed committees, all problems of production and marketing. It may extend its activities along any line for the improvement of rural conditions.

The Farm Bureau is an institution through which the farmer expects to demand a price for his products equal at least to the cost of production.

A Farm Bureau may affiliate with the State and National Federation of Farm Bureaus, whose purpose is based on the idea of giving to Agriculture the same voice in the State and National affairs now enjoyed by the other industries which are organized.

DON'T WHIP!

Stop Lashing Your Bowels with Harsh Cathartics but take "Cascarets."

Everyone must occasionally give to the bowels some regular help or else suffer from constipation, bilious attacks, stomach disorders, and sick headache. But do not whip the bowels into activity with harsh cathartics.

What the liver and bowels need is a gentle and natural tonic, one that can constantly be used without harm. The gentlest liver and bowel tonic is "Cascarets." They put the liver to work and cleanse the colon and bowels of all waste, toxins and poisons without griping—they never sicken or inconvenience you like Calomel, Salts, Oil or Purgatives.

Twenty-five million boxes of Cascarets are sold each year. They work while you sleep. Cascarets cost so little too.

Car Demolished After Collision.

L. J. Frazier, of Catlettsburg, one of the best known merchants in the tri-state, and W. J. Creighton were painfully, though not seriously hurt, when the car in which they were driving was demolished in an accident at Clydeside Park on Tuesday afternoon.

The car driven by Mr. Frazier collided with a heavy Cadillac driven by Mrs. O. D. Jones, of Ashland, and was hurled onto the track of the Ohio Valley Electric Railway at a moment when the near approach of a trolley car brought about its complete demolition.

Mr. Frazier and Mr. Creighton narrowly escaped serious injury or probable death, but were able to extricate themselves before the street car bore down upon them. The occupants of the Jones car were unhurt.
